If you haven't been to the new Australian cafe on the Upper Drag (31 1/2 St), you need to check it out mate. While living 'down-under' in Sydney, Jack, the owner (who's a UT graduate), discovered the unique gourmet pies and brought them back for Austin (and the UT faithful) to enjoy. Each pie is it's own culinary masterpiece like no other.

"Aussie meat pies" are handheld, flaky pastries filled with meats and vegetables. I tried the Traditional Beef and Thai Chicken... both were awesome! Though I noticed they also had vegetarian selections, salads and homemade kettle chips (yum!). Cooper's (an Australian beer) goes down smooth with these tasty concoctions. This is the perfect place to grab a quick bite but 'chill' enough to hang out for a cup of coffee or for happy hour. Just like a 'Boomerang,' you'll be coming back for more. So be sure to thank Jack for bringing a piece of the outback to UT.
